

Instant Message to Africa

Just too many problems and for far too long. Now we do mourn for the cities, if not the Hottentots, but we're sweeping the continent, South to North with atomic, laser, and microwave weapons.

Bush, brush and bricks! Unfortunately, the great big outdoor zoo goes also. But, simply, we are the lions.

"What can we do?"

Well, it's unluckily what you've done. Nothing! And that word also answers your question, cleverly enough.

"When?"

Operation's underway and is measured in literally a few hundred seconds. Now you see you, now you don't.

"Please?"

Just too many of those for our patience. At any rate, we don't want to make light of your death. Farewell. You're going "to a better land, I know."